

Terms of Service (TOS) for Network Collapse Mobile Application

Introduction

Network Collapse is a mobile application (also referenced here as "Application") designed for the Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA) and the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) for purpose of advancing interest in the field of cybersecurity among the general public and to educate users on the potential threats and benefits provided by computer networking. The Application was developed under contract by the Pacific Northwest National Laboratory (PNNL). These Terms of Service outline the elements of the Application which apply to end users.

Data Collection and Privacy

No personally identifiable information (PII) is collected by the United States Government or PNNL with this Application or any online components to the extent that the Application uses online components. At your option, you may have the ability to post a high score to an online leaderboard ("Leaderboard"). However, you are neither encouraged nor required to use the Leaderboard, nor are you required to use or provide your legal name or any other identifiable information.

No Warranty, Implied or Expressed

Network Collapse is provided free-of-charge, though normal carrier data fees may apply to download the Application or use optional online features. Neither the United States Government nor PNNL warrant the operation of the Application for any use, on any hardware or for any purpose. Neither the United States Government nor PNNL accept liability for any damage, either temporary or permanent, caused by the execution, use or misuse of the Application. By using Network Collapse, you specifically agree to release the United States Government and PNNL from any and all liability related to the Application or your use thereof.

No Obligation Created for CISA, DHS or the United States Government

These TOS do not form a contract for the purchase or sale of any item or service, nor do they constitute a basis for any promissory relationship between CISA, DHS, or PNNL and the end user. No term in these TOS shall be construed as creating a fiscal obligation on the United States Government or its contractors.

Savings

If a court of competent jurisdiction determines that one or more provisions of these TOS is/are unenforceable or otherwise invalid, the remaining TOS shall nonetheless remain in force.
